

I am disturbed by the decision of Sinclair Broadcasting to have their stations air an anti-Kerry documentary, just before the election.

It is my understanding that Sinclair does not pay for the use of the public airwaves. Airing only one-side of an important political issue just before an election does not serve the public's interest, but the interest of one particular ideaology.

I pray that the FCC will step in to stop this eggregious abuse of Sinclair's obligation to the public - either to create equal air time for the Kerry supporters (such as Move On or Michael Moore), or by allowing them to show their "documentary" AFTER the election.

I appreciate your time and care in this matter.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
